Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 06 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Settled this morning, wintry showers later. Cold with strong winds.

Today:
A frosty start to a bright and settled morning, before patchy cloud and further cold air brings a scattering of snow showers towards noon, continuing through to the evening. Cold throughout, but especially bitter in the strong winds. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Tonight:
This evening, skies will clear, leaving dry and calm conditions throughout thereafter. However, the lack of cloud will allow for another cold night, with widespread frost. Winds easing. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Wednesday:
Cloud envelops the region through the morning, though patchy in nature allowing for sunny spells for most through the day. Light winds, but still feeling cold, yet remaining dry. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Some showers and overnight rain Thursday, but milder than recently. Rain followed by wintry showers on Friday. Early outbreaks of snow and hail Saturday, followed by wintry showers. Remaining cold.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.